REPUBLICANS ENABLED TO GET OUT A REASONABLE VOTE.

The Party Managers Late in the Evening Were Sure the Result Would Be Satisfactory.

MEE OF BOTH PARTIES WORKED TO GVERCOME GENERAL APATHY.

A Heavy Vote Early in the Morning -Excellent Arrangements for Handling the Election.

"Pepublican" weather favored the voters of Marion county and Indianapolis yesterday. The sun shone brightly in the morning and in the early hours of the afternoon, but it grew slightly cooler and cloudy towards evening, not enough, however, to cut down the vote. The polls opened at 6 o'clock in the morning and closed at 6 o'clock at night promptly in each case, and there was much satisfaction at the systematic manner in which that important feature of the election was managed.

For an off year a comparatively heavy vote was cast. It exceeded the expectations of ftepublican managers and was surprising to the Democrats who had anticipated a heavy falling off in the Republican vote. Escimates of the vote cast naturally vary. County Chairman Elliott thinks the total vote will be in the neighborhood of 80 per cert., which he regards as highly satisfactory. Chairman Spencer places his estimate at from 75 to 85 per cent. Both estimates of the county chairmen were based on committeemen from every polling place in the county. These bulletins pointed to a fact somewhat unusual, that Republicans were getting out their vote better on the whole than the Democrats, even in strong Democratic wards. It was remarked that the greatest losses to both parties were in we'rds where the majority of each party was heavy, but at the Republican county in excess of the Republican.

Edwin Logsdon, Fred A. Joss, Floyd A. Woods and others identified with the county; organization say that no matter how light the vote was that Republican majorities have been maintained in an almost unverying ratio. Late yesterday evening Republican managers were claiming the county for Overstreet and the ticket by a majo ity of not less than 2,500, with the probability that it would run higher. Chairman Spencer's staff gave no figures, but insisted that the Democratic ticket was elected and that Dunn would win over Overstreet by a close majority. The bulletins to the county headquarters of each party did not bear out, however, the statement at the Demochatic county headquarters.

SCRATCHING WAS DONE.

It was not denied by either side that there was more than the usual amount of stratching. Notations were made on bulletins by precinct committeemen to the chunty chairmen that a good deal of stratching was going on by voters of both parties. The scratching did not apply to any ward particularly, but was general all over the city. In the North Side wards, where the Republican vote is heavy, it was cratic wards, the same statements were The conclusions were based on the me it took voters to mark their ballots. Democratic managers took this to mean that Ensley's chances were being injured Ensley was losing any more than other candidates. Mr. Ensley himself visited Every ward and sized up the situation carefully. He made the statement that he is satisfied with the way the vote was going and cannot see where he was suffering a

The early vote was very heavy. As soon as the polls opened at 6 o'clock there was rush of electors, and the crowds condnued until after 9 o'clock. From then on until noon the vote was light, and only a few stragglers visited the polls to take advantage of their privilege of citizenship. The same was true throughout the afternoon, although the vote ran heavier than setween 9 o'clock and 11:30 o'clock in the morning. At 4 o'clock voting commenced again fairly heavily, and from then on until ty busy. It is estimated that at 9 o'clock a few of the other precincts in that ward 30 per cent. of the vote had been cast. At directing the Democratic precinct commoon the percentage was raised to 50 per icent. In the so-called colored wards and among the Jews on Eddy street there were a few fights on account of voters be- be allowed to vote as the polls would be ing challenged, but these little differences were adjusted by diplomacy on the part of their respective managers without the intervention of the police. So far as could be judged by observations in various wards there was comparatively little challenging. One thing that was conducive to orderliness was the closing of the saloons by the strict orders of Mayor Bookwalter. These orders were pretty generally heeded, and firewater was obtainable only at extreme difficulty, if obtainable at all. It was a matter of comment that there was far less than the usual amount of intoxi-

ARRANGEMENTS GOOD.

Both parties had made excellent arrangements for handling their ends of the election. Corps of bicyclemen carried bulletins from the polling places to headquarters of each party, and a careful tab was kept on the vote as it mounted hour by hour. At the Republican headquarters Fred A. Joss, Secretary Harry Negley and Thomas Whallon received the bulletins and tabulated them. As they went over the wards one by one they expressed satisfaction that constantly increased with later returns. The claim was made by them that the Republican vote was showing up far seventh precinct in a barn in the rear of better on the whole than the Democratic. At the Democratic headquarters Secretary Ross, Joseph E. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the situation had grown even more favorable and Edwin Logsdon placed the Republican plurality at 2,200. At o'clock the Republican vote had increased fast and Mr. Logsdon placed the Republicplurality at from 3,000 to 3,500. The statement was made that the middle of the afternoon the Republican Republicans have a good chance to carry the ward, which is normally Democratic. The Sixth ward, with a big colored vote, did not give good results early in the day, as the colored vote, which is very hea y there, was slow in getting in. Republican managers hustled things when they discovered the apathy and rounded the voters up satisfactorily. Both sides made large claims in the Seventh ward, but the Republicans were able to present figures and the showing made on paper by the Democrats was not favorable to their chances. In the Ninth the Democrats claimed a heavy vote, but Republican committeemen declared their vote was coming in well and that the result would be more than satisfactory. But it was in the Democratic wards of the South Side that Republicans found the greatest reason for joy. Precinct after precinct showed that Republicans had voted in full and that Democrats had remained away from the polls. Last evening the situation was summed up by Republican managers as follows: While early in the day it looked as if the vote would be light and as if Republicans were staying away from the polls, the later returns showed that the vote would be heavier, if anything, than usual, and that Republicans were voting better than Democrats. The earliest figures enabled us to claim the county by 1,500. Now we can safely say that our plurality will be not less than 3,500 and will likely run higher."

First Ward. A day of unusual quiet marked the First ward. There have been elections when the First ward was an ominous one, but yesterday it was lamb-like the entire day. The polls in all the precincts were opened practically at the hour fixed by law and from that time on there was irregular voting. In some precincts there were lapses of half an hour each when no voters appeared. of hours, but the industry of the wagor corps was needed after that time by both parties to bring in the reluctant vote. The voting was featureless except for the evidence of scratching in some precincts, indulged in voters of both parties, but more especially by Democrats, and the frequent chalheadquarters the statement was made that lenges of colored voters. The Democrats the Democratic losses were considerably seemed to have prepared for wholesale challenging of negro Republicans and in a number of cases there were counter challenges after the votes had been qualified. Throughout the day the Republicans were alert and systematically brought in the votes that were needed to make the proper

Early in the day a tip went out that the Democrats would concentrate their money on August M. Kuhn, candidate for treassheriff, and this had the effect of holding many Democrats back from the polls waiting for their portion of the labor of electing these men. The Democrats boasted that Kuhn was running ahead of all other candidates and they seemed to be forgetful of all other interests except Kuhn's.

Second Ward.

The Second ward voting was typical. It was quiet, good natured and persistent. The booths were seldom without at least one occupant. About the voting places there were small groups all interested in getting out the vote. The ward had a small Democraic vote and a heavy Republican vote and getting these out was the constant work of the outside corps. At Sixteenth and College three precincts "corner" and the voting places were within a stone's throw of each other. Consequently the greatest activity was at this point. It had Second ward was in revolt and that the Republican vote could not be brought out. This brought to the polls a large array of Republicans who searched every part of each precinct to bring in delinquent voters. Many who were found placidly at their business informed the anxious workers short time but the workers were not taking any chances. There were few challenges and most of these were made ineffective by prompt qualification of the challenged voters. The election boards of the ward were of the same high character they have always been, many distinguished men of both parties

This state of affairs was caused by the persistent manner in which lenger, challenged the votes of nearly every colored voter who stepped inside the ropes. Trouble was narrowly averted several times and it consumed much time during the day and especially late in the afternoon for the Republicans to swear in the votes of legal voters. Herron even challenged a man residing next door to him and challenged men who had lived in the precinct for years. It was claimed that he was acting under orders of Democratic leaders so as to delay the voting of Republicans as long as possible. He was somewhat successful and at 5 o'clock there were nearly fifty men waiting to vote and a number on their way to the polls. There was also some challenging on the part of Democrats at the tenth precinct polls, but there was no trouble of any kind. At nearly all the voting places it was announced that the percentage of votes would be as large as in 1898. The voting in the booths were filled nearly all the time.

Fifth Ward.

The Fifth ward, with its 800 colored voters, was one that caused the workers of both parties much concern. The vote came In the First ward pessimistic reports were out slowly and at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon only about 60 per cent. of the total vote had been polled. Both parties were well organized and had plenty of men who were willing and anxlous to do all in their power to get the voters out. showing for the Republicans. At noon more Republicans than Democrats had voted and the committeeman and his assistants were jubilant. In the sixth, fifth and third about 60 per cent. of the vote had been polled at 3 o'clock and the honors were about even so far as percentage was concerned. In the first, which has the largest colored vote of the ward, the Republicans had cast 152 of the total of 175 votes polled at 3 o'clock. The percentage was largely in favor of the Republicans, and the committeeman thought that he would get out practically the entire vote. In the second, another heavily colored precinct, which is two to one Republican, the vote was very slow and the Democrats were in the lead late in the afternoon, having polled seventy votes to the Republicans'

Sixth Ward.

The Sixth, one of the down town wards, which is decidedly Republican, showed up well late in the afternoon with about 65 per cent. of the vote out. There are a great many colored voters in the western precincts of this ward and they seemed publicans had polled 101 out of a possible 174 to the Democrats' 48 out of 71 at 3:30 o'clock. In the fourth the Democrats were in the lead with 100 out of 112 to the Republicans' 71 out of 115. This is one of the close precincts and both parties were working hard to get out the vote with a result that the percentage was higher than in any other precinct in the ward. In the second the Democrats had only 65 votes to get out and of these they had pollled 53 by the middle of the afternoon, while the Republicans had voted 97 out of a possible precinct and they were all hanging back. In the first the Republicans had a shade the best of it and two-thirds of the total vote was in by 3 o'clock. In the eleventh the Republicans had accounted for 120 out of a possible 170 to 42 out of 80 for the Democrats. There are sixty colored voters in this precinct and they were slow in coming out. In the thirteenth the Republicans lost heavily through many of their voters being out of the city. There are many traveling men in this precinct and the Republican committeeman found that 25 or 30 of them had not stayed at home to vote. Outside of this a good vote was polled, although the Democrats had the best of it, getting out practically their entire vote. In the fifteenth the Republicans had twothirds of their voters out to one-third of the Democrats at 3:30 o'clock. In the fourteenth the Republicans made an even better showing, polling 101 out of a possible 130 to the Democrats' 34 out of 80 at 4 o'clock. In this precinct thirteen men had voted by the middle of the afternoon whom both the Republican and Democratic workers were forced to class as doubtful. The voters in the Sixth ward were for and not attempting to scratch, so far as men outside the polls could judge. There was some scratching done, but not nearly so much as had been anticipated. Oliver Ensley, Republican candidate for county treasurer, spent some little time in the Sixth during the day and he expressed himself as well satisfied with the way

Eighth Ward.

At 3 o'clock inquiry at the various polling places in the ward revealed the following

In the first precinct 79 votes had been cast, of which 32 were Republican and 47 Democrats. The vote was coming in slowly, but good returns were expected. In the second, out of 140 votes cast, the Republicans polled 75 and the Democrats Republicans got out the vote well. #### Ninth Ward.

In the Ninth ward where the Democrats are heavily in the majority it was anpounced about the middle of the afternoon that the vote in some of the precincts was light, but that the Republicans were holding their own. In the fifth precinct the Democrats seemed to be doing a good deal of scratching. "At least it takes them a

The election officers in the sixth precinct of the Ninth ward were an hour late getting started yesterday morning because of the late arrival of the tally-sheets. In the seventh precinct of the Ninth ward the Republicans said "We are doing as well as we have ever done.'

The Democrats in the eight precinct did not show the activity of the Republicans in getting out the vote. There are a great many railroad men in this precinct, some of whom were out on the road and could not get in to vote. Others were employed in the shops. It was expected there would be something of a rush about the polls between 5:30 and 6 o'clock. "We are holding our own," said one of the Republicans. Republican leader in the Ninth precinct of the Ninth ward remarked about the middle of the afternoon that the Republicans were getting out a larger per cent. of their vote than the Democrats. "Considerable scratching" was announced in this precinct. In the Tenth precinct there were also rumors of "scratching." In this precinct there did not seem to be any special evidences of activity on the part of the Democrats and one man suggested that they were inclined to "lay down." A Republican said his people would come very near getting out their entire vote. At the voting place in the Eleventh precinct of the Ninth ward George Bruce remarked about the middle of the afternoon that he looked for the vote on both sides to be about fifty short. In both the Ninth and Tenth wards there was little excitement. "Things are so quiet that it doesn't seem like the Ninth," remarked Captain Frank Clark, who is a resident of that ward. About the only excitement to speak of was in the fourth precinct inclined to hang back until the last hours of the Ninth ward where "Jerry" Collins, a former school commissioner sought to the polls would be open. In the fifth run things to suit himself. This precinct precinct, with 137 colored voters, the Re- is situated in the locality known as "Irish named "Jack" Sullivan, who, it was precinct. The conduct of Collins finally became so objectionable that the Republicans forced him away from the polls.

Tenth Ward.

In the Tenth ward, one of the most heavily Democratic wards of the city, the Republican election officers in some of the precincts said the vote was being got out as well as usual. In some precincts the There are 57 colored voters in this Republicans seemed to be having better success than the Democrats in getting out the vote. "I wish the polls could be closed right now," said one Republican at the voting place in the fourth precinct of the Tenth ward early in the afternoon. He said the Democrats were disgusted with the way things were going.

In the fifth precinct of the Tenth ward it was said that a good deal of scratching was going on among the Democrats. "We can tell who votes the Republican ticket in this ward by the length of time they are in the booth," remarked Charles Glover, who held the Republican poll book. Glover early in the afternoon predicted that the Republicans would carry the precinct. About the only excitement in this precinct was when "Jimmie" Moriarity challanged some colored voters.

The Republicans of the eighth precinct of the Tenth ward were pretty well pleased with the way things were going early in the afternoon. They believed they would carry the precinct because of the fact that the Italians of the precinct were all voting the Republican ticket. At 2:30 o'clock the Republicans of the seventh precinct of the Tenth ward announced that about 100 of their voters had been at the polls, leaving about twentyfive yet to vote. The Republican leaders said their vote was coming out better than they expected.

Eleventh Ward.

The Democrats in the Eleventh ward did much growling during the day on account of the few voters that came to the polls. Up to 5 o'clock in three-fourths of the precincts less than half of the Democratic vote had been polled. The Republican workers were active during the entire day and were successful in getting out the larger part of their vote. In five of the precincts complaint was heard of the young voters remaining away from the polls. Wagons brought them from their places of employment and when they arrived at both parties. The Republicans had things | the voting places they refused to go into the booths until they had been given 50 At 2:30 o'clock in the third precinct 120 | cents or $1. Many in each precinct held out for money and in many cases they did not vote at all. ## Twelfth Ward.

Apathy ruled in the Twelfth ward during the day. Old committeemen expressed their surprise at the light vote polled. In the case of the Democrats much hard work was done, but to no avail, as the young voters would not walk into the booths until they had been paid. This caused some worry among the workers, who repeatedly appealed to the Democratic headquarters for funds. None was sent and for this reason much indignation was expressed. In the various precincts it was said that less than half the Democratic vote had been polled. In the ward little or no drunkenness was noticed. The saloons obeyed the order from Superintendent Taffe and remained closed during voting hours. In this ward are many manufacturing plants, and the workmen did not work during the afternoon. Most of the vote was polled shortly after 6 o'clock, however. The men, after leaving their places of employment, stood about the voting places and discussed the probable outcome of the election. The voting was done quietly and no reports of brawls were made. Secretary Ross and Joseph Fanning made a tour of the ward late in the afternoon. When they drove up to voting places they were beseiged by bookholders and other workers for money to aid the voting, but they were refused.

Thirteenth Ward.

More activity was displayed by the voters of the Thirteenth ward than those in any of the other South Side wards yesterday. The precincts were all well equipped with vehicles and means of transportation, and the party organizers were busy in going after voters who had failed to put in an appearance at the polls early enough to suit them. Robert Metzger and Jacob Woessner, Republican and Democratic candidates for sheriff, live in the Thirteenth ward, and a spirted contest between them for the largest vote was held. In all of the precincts the Republican committeemen reported that the vote came out slow, but steadily, and that at least 90 per cent. of cast, of which the Republicans had 51 the vote was secured. The Democratic vote was light in some precincts and heavy in others. All voting places were marked by a lack of enthusiasm and an absence of the sights common around South Side

Fourteenth Ward.

The vote of the Fourteenth ward was slow in coming out yesterday. Both party managers experienced difficulty in getting their party workers to the polls. The apathy in some precincts was apparent and the election in progress was not sufficiently interesting to cause any excitement in any of the precincts. The saloons in the district were open through the back doofs but little drinking was indulged in by the voters. The early morning vote was heavy and some of the precinct leaders had trouble in handling the crowds of voters in the limited time at their disposal. A majority of the vote of this ward is Democratic and German, and all of the voters take little interest in political situations. The interesting contest was between August Kuhn and Oliver Ensley. Kuhn is well known in the ward, is a German and his stables are located in the ward. Many of the men employed by him live in the Fourteenth all of them were out yesterday working for his election.

To elect Kuhn seemed to be the object of the Democratic managers. Instead of the usual red rooster placards on Democratic wagons great signs were suspended from the rear of each vehicle advising the voter to mark his ballot to elect Kuhn. The talk of the residents that Kuhn was a German, a friend of theirs and formerly a South Sider was used by the committeemen and men around the voting places. The Republican committeemen worked for the ticket and avoided discussions of candidates. The Republican vote was received quickly after the voter had passed the challengers. The voters did not stay long in the booths, and the indications were that 85 per cent of the vote was polled before 6 o'clock.

Fifteenth Ward.

The quietest election ever held in the Fif teenth ward was that of yesterday. There was nothing at all in the neighborhood of some of the voting places to show that an election was in progress, and the polls were conspicuous by their deserted appearance. No trouble nor fights were had in the ward during the day and the scenes and incidents of former elections were absent from yesterday's election. The ward is heavily Democratic and the vote was not forthcoming early in the afternoon. About 50 per cent. of the Republicans had voted by noon, and by 4 o'clock in the afternoon 20 per cent. more were added. The precinct committeemen estimated the vote as about 80 per cent. of the ward. The Democratic losses in some precincts were proportionate with the maorities. The Republicans voted early and all of the vote was secured in most precincts. Scratching was not indulged in by the voters in the ward. From the little time necessary for each man in the voting booths it was shown that the voters stayed with their parties. The race between Metzger and Woessner extended into this ward, as did that of the two candidates for treasurer. Some money was being spent to further the interests of Kuhn, it was said by the committeemen, but not enough to hurt Ensley's vote. All of the salcons of the ward were accessible, but little patronized. No fights and no disorders were reported from the election, and the memories of the oldest inhabitants could not recall a more quiet elec-
